This illustration intends no disrespect toward the memories (or families) of these unwitting victims -- victims of a long line of failed predictions by the Watchtower Bible & Tract Society which showcased them on the cover of the Watchtower magazine to the entire world as tangible proof that the generation alive in 1914 would not die off before Armageddon (the end of the world). 14 were long-time members of their headquarters staff in New York and 2 others served there temporarily. All have since passed away along with the Watchtower Society's failed prediction.
